

Press release

Geneva, 29 September 2017

Hyposwiss Private Bank Geneva SA continues to grow its assets by the acquisition of the private and institutional clients of Compagnie Privée de Conseils et d'Investissements SA (CPCI).

Hyposwiss Private Bank Geneva SA (Hyposwiss) has signed an agreement with Compagnie Privée de Conseils et d'Investissements SA (CPCI) to acquire its private and institutional clients. This transaction is subject to the approval of the Swiss regulatory authorities and follows the acquisition, at the end of June 2017, of Fimanor Financial Management AG, a wealth management company in Zürich.

- CPCI today manages CHF 700 million;
- Nabil Jean Sab, Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of CPCI, will be appointed to the Board of Directors of Hyposwiss;
- Hyposwiss will integrate the employees in charge of managing transferred customers, coming mainly from Switzerland and the Middle East. This integration will include the head of the institutional in Geneva and the head of the CPCI office in Basel.

CPCI is a Swiss independent wealth management company based in Geneva since 2010. The company is a licensed securities trading institution as defined by the Swiss Federal Act on Stock Exchanges and Securities Trading and submitted to the Swiss Financial Market Supervisory Authority (FINMA). It operated previously under its former name ATAG Asset Management SA - AAM Banque Privée SA, Geneva branch before becoming CPCI.

By transferring its assets under management (AUM) of CPCI's clients to Hyposwiss, Nabil Jean Sab - founder and main shareholder of CPCI - wants to give a new direction to the development of his company.

Niels Bom Olesen, CEO of Hyposwiss, commented: "The two transactions completed this year enable Hyposwiss to enhance its quality customer base and increase its assets under management. Thanks to the unity and complementarity of partners and employees, our Group maintains its long tradition of know-how serving the international clientele through high quality standards, always in an active relationship of trust, personalized and respectful of the private sphere. By combining our professionalism, we will continue to build an institution identified by its performance in wealth management and the passion for the profession of its leaders.
